Hey~

It's finally happened~ I acquired the missing raws and got around to working on this chapter. We're still short on active staff though, so if you want to see this project continued - and continued at a decent pace - please consider helping out.

In case you don't follow our other releases and thus read the release messages, I'll repeat myself:
We will not be offering an obnoxious-stamp-free version to download on our forum any more because the f*cktards from Mangafox, Kissmanga and co. had their paid employees infiltrate our forum to steal those releases as well.

We were trying to offer readers a version without the obnoxious stamps, but were repaid with more greed by the hoster mafia. So, if you hate the fish-stamp, you can let the hoster mafia know that you hate them for causing this. Spread the word. If they make enough money by stealing other people's free-fan-service work to pay employees to infiltrate forums... Well. You should understand where I'm heading with this and why those sites are such a problem for the manga industry and the scanlation scene.

Same as always. You don't like the stamping? Move on. Buy the original version if you don't want to see any stamps. This is not supposed to help you avoid buying the real thing. The mangaka and publisher people need money to live on too (We have links on where to buy the Japanese version as a paper-book or ebook on our forum, so there's no excuse like "I don't know where to buy it!"). This scanlation is for fans who cannot read Japanese or Chinese and those who cannot afford to buy the manga or every single volume of the series.

Occasionally I will get those really stupid, crude people insulting me, but I really just get amused by them, so don't bother if you had similar ideas. It won't get you anywhere except straight onto my f*cktard-list... How old are you? 5? And your lollypop fell down into the dirt, yes? Poor baby (with a potty mouth).. ='(

For those who appreciate our service anyways, I wish you happy reading.

We're still looking for translators (Japanese/Chinese) as well as cleaners and typesetters (no experience or photoshop needed) here at CRS, so, if you have time and want to be part of the scanlation process, we'd be happy to welcome you.

Best wishes,
Aki
